Qamar and Sahar

The Cousins

Between the aroma of coffee and the smell of perfume

Authentic values and rich legacy remain alive in our hearts, but we stand confused in the face of modern storms, so where do our steps take us? The show revolves around this line, through its protagonist, a Bedouin young man studying in the United States and goes home to face the choice between his two cousins, one who's a Bedouin girl and the other who is a modern city girl, so which one will he choose?

Drama/ Social/ Thriller/ Romance

Summary

A young man from Bedouin origins who studied in the United States, and who's sensitive and loves Bedouin poetry. He falls in love with his Bedouin cousin, the beautiful, educated, athletic girl who's an example of the modern Arab girl. But when he goes back to the dwellings of his tribe, he is amazed by his other cousin, who's an example of the bright Bedouin girl, who masters horseback riding and poetry, and with whom he shares childhood memories, which makes him torn between choosing the originality of the desert or the example of the modern city?

Dramatic Treatment

Until the end of the series, the young man stands in what seems like a closed circle, torn between what each of his cousins represent in his mind and heart. Does he go for the original or the modern? It's a series that smells of coffee and Bedouin life, even if it shows signs of modernity and globalizations.

Production Value

This series was filmed with the latest equipment and devices that not only introduce the concept of portable cameras, but also represent the cinematic formula of visual formation. The costume and accessories design were unlike anything done before in Bedouin drama series.

Language

The dialect language.
